

Dykes of Gray, Dundee

Continuing partnership with Proludic and Springfield

Client: Springfield Properties

Address: Dykes of Gray, Dundee, DD2 5JY

Budget: £39,000

Age Range: Toddler, Junior

Project Story

Dykes of Gray is new housing development which has been designed as a community focused neighbourhood close to the Dundee city centre. Proludic has continued its partnership with Springfield Properties at the Dykes of Gray housing development as this is the fourth play area we have designed and installed at this development. The play area was designed to accommodate various age ranges and provides numerous play values across all the equipment.

“Springfield Properties are one of the largest house building companies in Scotland. We have been very pleased with the high level of service from Proludic over the past few years and have awarded play area design and build contracts to them in all areas of the country. The high quality products in their designs is supported by their exceptionally good contracts and after sales support. We are happy to recommend them. The toddler and Junior play areas at Dykes of Gray are an excellent example of age appropriate activities, and value for money.”

Scott Kearns, Commercial Manager at Springfield Properties in Larbert.

CABE and The Housing Federation published the 'Decent homes need decent spaces' report which shows that investing in high quality community spaces is effective for keeping people safe. In addition to this, it also states that green spaces closest to where people live brings the most health benefits. Therefore, when designing spaces close to homes, Proludic strive to ensure we provide environments where children and families can engage with nature and play freely as much as possible.
